Woman Gets Her Porch Washed, The Hard Way

BACK: Yo ho ho and a bottle of Rem. This is Tim.
Yep, I'm back after a week, and following the dissertation by Li'l Willie the Penny Man when I was gone I had better explain that I had the week off, had a cold and did NOT wash the windows.

The week off and the window-washing had been planned but the cold was not, and the cold cancelled out the window-washing and left me a week off.

We went to St. Louis for a day and a half and I thought it would be good strategy to attack the soft underbelly of the city; so we went over Jefferson Barracks bridge and up through the south.

And I've right now got a stiff neck and stiff shoulder but not from the cold. And not from looking at the tall buildings in St. Louis, either, because I've really been around. I've been to both Evansville and Paducah.

I came up with the stiff neck and stiff shoulder because I'd forget myself momentarily in the big city. I'd hear an auto horn and I'd turn real quick, thinking the toot was the same as a hello down here. But just as I'd start to turn my head to see who was honking at me and start to raise my arm to return the greeting, I'd realize that it was somebody honking for me to get over or to get a move on and I'd stop right in the middle of my acknowledgment. That quick start and quick stop isn't too good on ligaments.

I spent the evening up in St. Louis on the fourteenth floor and had a real good time flushing the bathroom and watching the water drop out quickly at that height. It sure leaves in a hurry. Boy, I bet that it was dropping a mile a minute before it got down to the ground! Way up there it sure disappeared a lot quicker than it does down here.

Before I stop this essay-effort I want to tell you an incident that I guess should come under the heading "LIFE IN HARRISBURG."

It is a true story and for that reason I'll leave out the names.

But several days ago a good lady of our city, a real conscientious woman, wanted to wash off her front steps. Reason? Because they were dirty.

Now this conscientious woman had no porch at all — just front steps made out of brick and concrete that led up to her front door.

She had heard something 'way back about the ban on the use of city water for washing porches; so she called up a city official and told him she had some dirty steps and was it against the law to wash them off.

Now this city official told her it was but said that there is no ban on car washing. The thing to do, he said, was to drive the car up close to the steps, spray the water on the car, and if the water splattered or ran onto the steps, she couldn't help that.

Now this lady's car was clean. It had been washed only a couple of days before. But she dutifully backed her auto up close to the steps and got so close that she knocked four bricks out.

But in spite of misfortune she went right ahead, squirting the water onto her car and letting that what-may drizzle over onto the steps.

People, that is one way of getting your steps washed.

The eight last named were identified only as "members of the Vaadi crew."

Vandals Overtun Ten Monuments

Vandals overturned ten monuments, weighing up to 1,800 pounds, at the Eldorado Monument Co. last night, Deputy Sheriff Henry Devar, who investigated, reported today. Three of the monuments were damaged.

Eisenhower Assures Nation Will Not Be Lulled into Complacency by Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower assured the nation today that his administration will not be lulled into complacency by Russia's latest peace offensive.

He devoted most of his weekly news conference to driving home that theme and making two major points about U. S. foreign policy:

1. This country will not take part in any top-level conferences with Russia until after the Paris agreements on German rearmament are put into effect, and until there is solid evidence that Russia really wants to talk reasonably and sincerely about peace.

2. Neither he nor Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is taking anything for granted in their effort to figure out what is behind Moscow's current emphasis on the Soviet desire for "peaceful co-existence" with the West.

In stressing the latter point, Mr.

Elzo Harper, 73, Dies; Funeral Thursday 2 p. m.

Elzo Harper, 73, native of Pope county who resided at 124 West O'Garra in Harrisburg, died yesterday at 2:20 p. m. at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bush, in Harrisburg.

Mr. Harper and his wife, Rose, had lived with their daughter for the past three months.

He was a farmer in Pope county before moving to Harrisburg, and since living here had worked in the coal mines and had been employed for the Southeastern Illinois Gas Co.

Besides his wife, Rose, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Maxine Bush, who taught in the city schools in Harrisburg for ten years and who is now teaching in Herrin; two half brothers, Finley Harper of Eddyville, and Roy Harper of Decatur; and two half sisters, Mrs. Sylvia Bryan, Carverville, and Mrs. Eva Gable of Eddyville.

The body will lie in state at the Gibbons funeral chapel.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the McKinley Avenue Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. J. D. McCarty, will officiate and burial will be in Sunset Lawn cemetery.

The Robert Evans family of McLeansboro barely made its escape early today from flames that gutted their house and destroyed all their belongings.

Mr. Evans is editor and manager of the McLeansboro Times-Leader, of which Curtis G. Small, J. O. Wells and Mrs. Roy L. Seight of this city are owners.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans and their three children made their way through the fire and smoke after Mrs. Evans was awakened by the smoke around 4 a. m.

The fire started in the basement between the furnace and the basement ceiling and apparently spread upstairs through the cold-air registers.

The walls and the roof of the asbestos-sided residence remained but the structure was gutted.

Plans for the December visit of the Bloodmobile to Saline county were formulated at the last meeting of the Saline County Blood Program committee, held Nov. 19, at which time it was disclosed that Saline county is expected to provide 400 pints of blood as its share of the blood needed by the regional blood center during the holiday season.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Harrisburg Elks club on Friday, Dec. 17, and at the Masonic temple in Carrier Mills on Saturday, Dec. 18.

An important change in the medical criteria was announced at the meeting: At least 10 weeks must elapse between individual donations, and no individual should be accepted more than five times a year as a blood donor.

It was pointed out at the meeting that emphasis should be placed on the fact that the Red Cross serves only as the collecting agency in the blood program. The cost to the Red Cross of collecting a pint of blood in Saline county averages $4.18 a pint, but the recipient of the blood receives it free of charge.

Ways and means were discussed at this meeting to alert Saline county residents to the importance of the program to everyone, and to help everyone to realize that the blood program is a community program. It was decided to encourage everyone to call and ask for a Bloodmobile appointment if they have not been previously contacted and asked to give blood.

Attention of the committee was called to an article on blood banks in the Nov. 12th issue of Collier's magazine.

Other conference highlights:

1. He hopes the Senate will confirm all his nominations to top posts such as the vacancies on the Supreme Court and Atomic Energy Commission as soon as possible unless there is a deep and real controversy.

2. He plans to hold conferences with Republican legislative leaders before the 84th Congress convenes Jan. 5, but they will not be as extensive as last year when he submitted a complete legislative program to congressional leaders.

3. How much conferring he does with Democratic congressional leaders on domestic matters will depend on the merits in each case.

4. He believes the Supreme Court will not be arbitrary on the question of settling a time-table for ending school segregation.

5. He believes that West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen should be permitted to debate the question of Red China's admission to the United Nations to their hearts' content.

Trim State Toll Road Program To 191 Miles

Old National Trail Turnpike to Indiana Line Dropped

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Engineers mapped final routes today for 191 miles of northern Illinois turnpikes, a sharp cut in the Illinois Toll Highway Commission's original construction plans.

Gov. William G. Stratton announced the mileage figure after the commission met at length Monday with lawyers, bankers and engineers. Construction cost was placed at about 390 million dollars.

The commission had hoped to start its gigantic roadbuilding program with 468 miles of turnpikes, costing 600 million dollars. But parts of this proposed system were ruled out as not feasible now.

Trimmed from the program Monday was a 154-mile route from East St. Louis to the Indiana line near Terre Haute. This had been designated as the "Old National Trail" turnpike.

Another cut came on the proposed 149-mile toll road from Chicago to the Quad-Cities. This will now run only as far west as Aurora.

Remaining in the program are the "Tri-State" route, a beltline around Chicago from the Indiana line to Wisconsin; the Chicago-Aurora route, and a turnpike from Chicago to Rockford and the Wisconsin line.

To this, the commission added one new turnpike — a route into Chicago as far as Cicero Avenue, using right-of-way now earmarked for the Northwest Expressway.

Stratton said maps pinpointing routes, and figures on exact costs, revenues and tolls will be available at an open meeting of the commission here next Tuesday.

In the meantime, he said, engineers will seek to meet objections raised to some of the routes, particularly those of Chicago suburbanites dissatisfied with the "Tri-State" route.

"We're very hopeful that in some areas where we have minor changes these can be worked out," Stratton told reporters.

But the commission's announcement drew protests, nevertheless, from those who had sought a delay in the toll road program.

Threaten Legal Action

G. R. Rossman, president of the Suburban Home Protective League, charged the governor "disregarded our suggestions" by going ahead with the program and warned "We are going to take legal action."

Nickell said he also wanted to look specifically into reports that Henry named as dean a man who did not have a Ph.D.

Clarence Hilberry, president of Wayne, said Henry was the victim of "a vicious, unsubstantiated and anonymous attack."

Henry was among five eligibles for the Illinois post whose names were submitted to the trustees by a faculty committee on presidential candidates. He was the only potential candidate interviewed by the board to date.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. David D. Henry, executive vice chancellor of New York University, said today he had asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration as president of the University of Illinois because of the "deplorable" degeneration of the selection procedure into "a process of public review."

Henry, vice chancellor of New York University since 1952, allegedly refused to ban a chapter of the American Youth for Democracy from the Wayne campus.

Dr. Henry Quits Race for U. I. Presidency

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. David D. Henry announced today he was withdrawing as a candidate for the presidency of the University of Illinois.

Henry announced his withdrawal shortly before a University of Illinois trustee was to meet with Wayne University faculty members to "investigate his background."

Henry, former president of the Detroit school, was regarded as the N. 1 candidate for the presidency of the University of Illinois.

Wayne University officials said Henry notified them of his withdrawal from New York. He told them he was preparing a formal statement which he would release there.

Vernon L. Nickell, Illinois state superintendent of public instruction and ex-officio member of the Illinois University Board of Trustees, came here to determine the validity of "unfavorable reports" on the administration of Henry at Wayne.

Fog Covers Area; Report Two Crashes

Fog spread over the area last night and this morning and state police said that although traffic was moving, it was moving very slow.

There were two motor vehicle crashes in the area that were attributed to the fog. Nobody was hurt in either collision.

State Safety Sgt. C. Lendall Rockwell said that a pickup truck driven by Henry Clark of Rileyville community pulled across Route 34 at Rileyville this morning and figured in a collision with a car going south that was driven by Hugh Kelley of Manteno. Clark told Rockwell he stopped at the highway and looked both ways but could see nothing because of the fog.

At Stonefort this morning, Sheriff Paul Spangler reported, a car backed out into the path of a truck and a collision resulted in the heavy fog.

Fills Vacancy By Death of Andrei Vishinsky

Diplomats, 'Friends'
Invited to View
Body of Diplomat

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet delegation to the United Nations opened the doors of its Park Avenue headquarters building today to permit diplomats and carefully-screened "friends" to view the body of the late Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

Across the Atlantic, it was announced in London that Jacob Malik, Soviet ambassador to Great Britain, had been ordered to fly to New York tonight and take over leadership of the Russian delegation to the United Nations from Vishinsky who died of a heart attack Monday.

A spokesman for the Soviet embassy said he did not know whether Malik was replacing Andrei Vishinsky, who died Monday, temporarily or permanently.

Malik now is serving the Kremlin as its ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Thus within hours of Vishinsky's death, the Kremlin shuffled an experienced hand into the vacancy.

To Fly Body to Moscow

Malik was permanent Soviet delegate to the United Nations before he was dispatched to London after the death of Stalin. He was moved out of the United Nations to make way for Vishinsky, who had been demoted from foreign minister in the shakeup that followed the ascension to power of the new Soviet regime.

A delegation spokesman said Vishinsky would lie in state from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and that high government officials and acquaintances would be invited to file by the coffin.

An earlier announcement from the delegation said the public would be permitted "to pay its respects" to the dead chief Soviet U. N. delegate but it was made known early today that strangers were not invited.

After the Iron Curtain again falls on that part of Park Avenue at 3 p. m. the Soviets will prepare for the solemn procession to Idlewild Airport, scheduled to begin at 4 p. m.

A chartered plane is expected to leave for Moscow, by way of Paris and Prague, with Vishinsky's body at 6 p. m. His widow and daughter Zinaida will accompany the body.

Vishinsky's $8,000 copper-lined casket was wheeled to its lying-in-state place on the second floor of the headquarters building, one floor beneath the living quarters where he was found dead of a heart attack Monday.

Embalming Delayed

Police red tape held up the embalming of Vishinsky's body for almost 10 hours.

A Soviet physician, identified only as Dr. Kosov, said Vishinsky died at 9:30 a. m. of stenocardia, an excruciatingly painful heart ailment known more familiarly as angina pectoris.

But New York embalmers refused to touch the body because Dr. Kosov was not licensed to practice in New York state. It was not until Dr. Milton Helfern, New York deputy medical examiner, signed the death certificate at 7:15 p. m. that permission was given to proceed with the embalming.

Mrs. Sam Spurlock Dies Near Eldorado

Mrs. Bessie Spurlock, 74, resident of Eldorado RFD 3, died yesterday at 5 p. m. at her home. She was the widow of Sam Spurlock and had been ill for the past eight months.

She is survived by one son, Hayes Spurlock, also of Eldorado RFD 3; two daughters, Mrs. Joe Choiser, and Mrs. Larren Patterson, both of Eldorado; a brother, Charles Hall of Raleigh; a sister, Mrs. William Irvin, Eldorado; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body now lies in state at the Martin funeral home where the funeral will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Austin Heuver, Presbyterian minister, will officiate, and burial will be in the Masonic cemetery at Raleigh.

Severing Red Relations

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Once more Senator Knowland of California, Republican majority leader, has demanded that the United States sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union. The occasion this time is the recent shooting down of a U. S. reconnaissance plane off the Japanese coast.

His wrath and that of all Americans at this latest instance of Russian brutality is thoroughly understandable. If these mapping missions over the northern reaches of Japan are within proper territorial bounds, as they seem to have been, then we should take all reasonable steps to protect the men who fly them. That includes fighter escorts.

But it is something else to demonstrate our displeasure by cutting diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union.

There would be certain advantages in such a course, naturally.
We would be telling the world in emphatic terms what we thought of phony Soviet justifications of these ruthless acts. We would close Russian diplomatic outlets in the United States which beyond doubt are serving as espionage headquarters.

But we would also be losing a great deal. We would give up all access to the Soviet Union. As it is today, we maintain not only an ambassador but military and naval attaches and other trained observers in Moscow. All these men are charged with the responsibility of keeping close watch on Russian official behavior.

Some may argue that under the restrictions of the Soviet secret police they can observe nothing but those things the Russians do not wish to conceal. But experience has taught us this is not so.

Men like Ambassador Charles Bohlen, commanding the Russian language and steeped in knowledge of the country, can employ delicate antennae to pick up and piece together all kinds of useful information. They can do this in spite of all Russian efforts to prevent it.

We have no illusions about Soviet representatives in this country. We know they do the same thing here that we try to do in Russia. But it has been the considered judgment of our highest officials that the risk is worth taking, that we stand to gain more than we lose by keeping an avenue into the enemy's heartland.

There is another quite practical reason for maintaining relations.
Since Russia is plainly committed to a policy of nagging aggression and we are committed to opposing it, it is inevitable that incidents of the sort just reported off Japan are going to happen from time to time.

When they do, we can make more forceful protests to Moscow through direct representatives than through neutrals such as Switzerland which would have to act for us if we had no diplomatic ties. In other words, so long as we and the Russians stay short of war, we actually can protect our national interests better by maintaining relations than by cutting them.

There is no "appeasement" involved in keeping this contact. By doing so we do not tell the world
we approve of the Russian government. We merely intend to show that we recognize it as an ugly fact of life, and that we aim—for our own safety—to find out all we can about that ugly fact.

Dewey's Future

Governor Dewey of New York has at least temporarily put the seal on his public career by announcing his affiliation with a prominent New York City law firm.
Dewey says he is tired of the pressures of public office and will genuinely welcome private life.
There is no reason to doubt his sincerity on this score.

Nevertheless, most Americans who have watched Dewey in the political arena these past 16 years or so will probably wonder if political ambition really has died within him. He is still young, as public figures go—52. He still has all his political resourcefulness.

True, he also has severe handicaps. Many in the Republican Party blame him alone for the GOP defeat in 1948. And his role in the Eisenhower triumph of 1952 at Chicago is resented by those who supported the late Senator Taft.

But time could eliminate much of that resentment if Dewey now comports himself carefully in his quasi-private status. For he will be making many public appearances and will continue inevitably to play a role in his party's activities.

It will be interesting to watch.

State Department 'Cleanup' Is A Never-Ending Task

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles firing of Foreign Service Officer John Paton Davies, Jr., after 23 years as a career diplomat, spotlights again the fact that the State Department "cleanup" is still going on.

As a matter of fact it will never be ended. No State Department employee can have any assurance that he has been investigated and cleared for the last time.

In the case of John Davies, he was investigated and cleared eight times. The ninth time they fired him—not for disloyalty—but for "lack of judgment, discretion and reliability." That is the pattern for the future.

As of Oct. 31, says Scott W. Mc-Leod, State Department's Administrator of Security, 90 per cent of its employees had been investigated or re-investigated for security clearance under President Eisenhower's program of April, 1953. On the basis of 10,600 employees now in the department, that would mean 1060 were still under investigation.

THIS DOES NOT NECESSAR-ILY mean that these 1,060 may be presumed to be security risks, Mr.
McLeod explains. Many new employees of the Department are given 120-day temporary clearances when they are hired, pending investigation. They are considered trainees.
They are not given sensitive positions nor sent overseas until they have final clearance.

By Jan. 1, Mr. McLeod believes that all of the old employees of the State Department will have been screened once. The team of Civil Service investigators, brought in to speed up this re-examination of old files under the Eisenhower security program, was sent back on Aug. 1. Since then, State Department examiners have been handling all their own cases.

But even after Jan. 1, the State Department will not be able to consider itself as cleaned up. There will always be a backlog of about 5 per cent of its personnel—about 500 cases—under security investigation, Mr. McLeod believes.

THE NUMBER MAY GET UP to 7 per cent sometimes and down to 3 per cent at others, he says. As of some particular evening, the department may be 100 per cent cleaned up. But the next morning there will be new cases to review.

Some of these will be new employees. Others will be old employees up for promotion or transfer.
Every time a State Department employee is reassigned, his security file must be reviewed. Or, whenever any new information is received on any employee, his case will be reopened.

This policy has been criticized as placing government employees under continuous jeopardy, making it impossible for them ever to have any feeling of job security.
But to Security Administrator Mc-Leod, this is simply good personnel policy as followed in any business. Anybody who works for a living, even the president of a big corporation—can be fired if he misbehaves or goes haywire.

CLOSING OF THE John Davies
case offers an illustration. The record in this case now fills two four-drawer steel filing cabinets. It has top-secret documents in it from State Department, Central Intelligence Agency, Department of Defense, Federal Bureau of Investigation and secret congressional committee hearings on which there has never been any publicity.

There are also many cross-filings
in the record, in which the names of other individuals were brought into the Davies hearing. As these papers are redistributed in breaking up the Davies file, the cases of some of these individuals may be reopened.

Dismissal of John Davies is the

Less Than Four Year Navy Enlistments For Youths, 17 or 18

Many young men facing military service in the near future may not be aware that the United States Navy offers an opportunity to enlist for less than four years. Normal Navy enlistments are for four or six years. However, a young man may enlist for what is called a "minority cruise," that is, until the day before his twenty-first birthday.

This option entitles a man to enlist at any time between his seventeenth and eighteenth birthdays and be discharged less than four years later. For example, if a man enlists the day before his eighteenth birthday, he serves three years and a day. For the purposes of reenlistment this shortened "hitch" is considered the same as a regular four-year first enlistment.

For a man with a career in mind, the minority cruise is the first step on the road to retirement at the age of 37 or 38 to the Fleet Reserve, with a monthly income of half the salary he received in his last pay grade while on active service. Ten more years of service would mean retirement at 47 or 48 on two-thirds full pay.

Parent's consent is necessary for a minority enlistment. Complete details may be obtained by contacting Chief Pease, at Post Office,
Marion, or every Monday from 9 a.

Alger Hiss to Be Released from Prison Saturday; Future Unknown

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UP) — Alger
Hiss will be awakened at 6:45 a. m.
next Saturday by a bugle call and the blast of a whistle outside his cell in the federal penitentiary.

He will wash, shave and dress in 15 minutes, make his bed and then go to breakfast with the other convicts as he has done for three years and eight months.

But Saturday will be different.
At 9 a. m. he will walk out the prison gates. He will be free, in a sense.

Hiss apparently intends to stick to the position that there was no truth whatsoever to Whittaker Chambers' story that the two of them worked in a Communist spy ring in the 1930s and that he gave Chambers secret State Department papers.

His denial of those two points
sent him to prison for perjury.

Two congressional committees have indicated they want to question again this man who rose high in state councils, served as adviser to President Roosevelt at Yalta, was secretary general of the San Francisco conference at which the United Nations was born.

Now 50 Years Old

Hiss, now 50, a little fatter and considerably grayer, will be met at the penitentiary gate by his wife and, probably, a small army of newspapermen. It is understood the Hisses will then drive to New York to the small Manhattan apartment where Mrs. Hiss has been living.

Hiss has been a "model" prisoner
at Lewisburg, according to Warden Fred Wilkinson. His good behavior won him a year and four months off his five-year term. It also got him a cell for himself in the 1,400-inmate prison.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Rebekahs Elect New District Officers
The 37th annual meeting of Rebekah district No. 29 was held at the hall of Star of Egypt Rebekah lodge No. 273 in Galatia Nov. 15. The meeting was opened with the noble grand, Hazel McKinney, and Lois Wathen, vice grand, presiding.

The president of the district, Delia Mayberry of McLeansboro, was then introduced. Present were Mrs. Bolen Perkins, Mrs. George Lindemuth, Mrs. Clyde Harding, Mrs. H. E. Jones, Mrs. Luther Prout, Mrs. D. L. Shain, Mrs. H. N. Finney, Mrs. J. W. F. Davis, Mrs. Anna Williams and the hostess.

Stevenson Hints Of Retirement

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson returned to Chicago after a week's vacation today, leaving behind a hint that he intends to retire soon from public life.

In thanking residents for their hospitality during his rest from the fall political campaign the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate said he did not expect to be an "object of public curiosity much longer."

Stevenson did not elaborate on his remark except to add that he had been "among the unemployed too long" and was anxious to get back to his law practice.

He has spent a week, mostly devoted to hunting, as the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Ives.

Lenore Circle Holds Dessert, Program

The Misses Julia Williamson and Ethel Ewing were hostesses Monday evening to the Lenore circle of the Presbyterian church for dessert at the Turner cafe, followed by the program meeting at the church.

Mrs. Stella Brashear, circle chairman, turned the meeting over to Miss Lelle Anderson, program chairman, who gave the opening devotion using Psalm 95, and also mentioned the names of the missionaries for the day. Mrs. Ownley Furman closed with prayer, in which she was joined by the group praying the Lord's Prayer.

The Bible study on "A Generous Church" was given by Mrs. Steve Farrar, who gave the story of the early Christians and their care of each other as told in different books of the New Testament.

Mrs. Nelle Meyers told in a most interesting manner of "The Growth of the Christian Church in India and Pakistan" as told in the book "Under Three Flags."

During the business meeting following the program, a Thanksgiving offering was taken for Kemmerer Orphanage at Assumption and Gladys Gaskins thanked the members for an honorary membership in the National Board of Christian Education given her by the circle in recognition of her many years as secretary of the Sunday school, as well as her work in the circle.

Those in attendance at the meeting in addition to the ones mentioned before were Mrs. Harry Barter, Mrs. Mildred Boicourt, Ada Cable, Juanita Joiner, Mary Morrison and Edith Morrison, Mrs. Herman Seifried, Jean Selby, and Mrs. George Henderson, a guest.

Mrs. Boicourt invited the circle to hold its Christmas party with her Dec. 13.

Hoover Receives Personal Thanks From Adenauer

BONN, Germany (UP) — Herbert Hoover, hailed by the Bonn government as "a friend of humanity and a statesman," received the personal thanks of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today for helping defeat and starve Germany to regain its feet in both world wars.

The 80-year-old former American president, who arrived here Monday for a six-day official visit to West Germany and West Berlin, met with Adenauer for 45 minutes. This was Mr. Hoover's first visit to Germany since 1947 when he master-minded a food program that put hungry Germany on the road to recovery. He did the same thing after World War I.

Scientists Expose Boat Buried in Egyptian Pyramid for 5,000 Years

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—A team of scientists and engineers today carefully opened a great limestone-sealed gallery of the Cheops pyramid, exposing to view the bow of a cedarwood boat in which Egypt's ancient ruler hoped to journey to paradise.

A musty odor spread upward from the boat pit which had been sealed 5,000 years ago, preserving Cheops' solar boat against time, weather and marauders.

The long-closed gallery was opened with the removal of a huge limestone slab from the forward end of the sand-buried, rock-cut drydock in which the boat of the Pharaoh lies.

For the first time it became possible to see the full length of the gracefully fashioned craft, one of a type in which Egypt's ancient rulers believed their souls would be borne through the heavens to the kingdom of the gods.

The bow of the craft was directly beneath the opening from which the first stone was removed.

It was gently rounded in an upward curve and finely carved. At its extremity, the bow was ornamented with a carved lotus blossom — the floral emblem of ancient Egypt.

The delicate process of opening the gallery was a feat unprecedented in Egyptology.

Archeologist Kamal El Mallakh, discoverer of the solar boat, anxiously supervised the team of 30 workmen who did the manual job of hauling away the limestone slab, weighing 16.2 tons.

The rectangular stone was lifted by a block and tackle and two 20-ton hand-operated cranes. The heaving workmen were able to move the stone only a fraction of an inch at a time.

Sheppard Closes Eyes at Blood-Soaked Pajamas

CLEVELAND (UP) — The state spread Marilyn Sheppard's pale blue blood-soaked pajamas on an exhibit table today 20 feet in front of her surgeon husband.

Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard closed his eyes at the sight and sat Sphinx-like, pale but without moving a feature of his face.

The pajamas were the ones worn by Mrs. Sheppard, 31, as she was bludgeoned to death in her bed last July 4. Dr. Sheppard is on trial for his life, accused of beating his wife to death after quarreling with her about his love affairs with other women.

Earl Johnston, assistant custodian for the county coroner, identified the pajamas as the ones he had taken from Mrs. Sheppard's body when it arrived at the morgue.

The pajamas were entered in evidence by the state, as were three rings which Johnston testified had been removed from the dead woman's left hand ring finger.

The witness said he found the fingernail torn on that finger, but the rings were down next to the knuckle, as close to the hand as possible. That evidence was designed to oppose the defense theory that a burglar might have committed the crime.

Richard Sommer, a fireman in suburban Bay Village, testified he arrived at the home about 6 a. m. on the morning of the murder. Mrs. Sheppard was killed between 3 and 4 a. m. the autopsy indicated. "Marilyn Sheppard was lying in bed," he testified. "She'd been hacked. She was bloody. She was dead."

Cross-examined by Defense Atty. William J. Corrigan, Sommer said he had known the Sheppards for some time and that they "acted just like an ordinary man and wife." The state has yet to produce a witness to testify seeing the Sheppards quarreling violently.

Miners Give Free Rides to Defeat Municipal Gas System

PINCKNEYVILLE, Ill. (UP) — Coal miners fighting a proposed municipal gas system here today gave voters free rides to the polls in an effort to beat a $485,000 bond issue.

Early reports indicated heavy voting among the 200 to 250 miners who live here and fear use of gas would threaten their jobs. Some local businessmen also oppose the municipal system.

Japan Reports Patrol Boat Strafed by Plane

TOKYO (UP)—An unidentified warplane strafed a Japanese patrol boat today near Nationalist China's besieged Tachen Island where two Japanese fishing vessels were sunk Sunday.

The plane fired about 50 shots at the No. 16 Taiyo Maru about 40 miles northeast of the Nationalist outpost island which has been bombed by Communist Chinese planes.

Japanese Maritime Safety Board officials said the shots missed the vessel.

Earlier today the Japanese Fishermen's Assn. in Moji, Kyushu, warned Japanese fishing boats to stay away from Tachen Island waters as a result of the sinking of the two boats with a loss of three lives.

The association was inclined to believe Nationalist Chinese warships mistook the Japanese boats for Red Chinese craft.

Survivors of the sunken boats said two "coast defense" type warships without lights shelled them without warning.

They said both boats, the No. 31 and No. 32 Yamada Maru of Nagasaki, had Rising Sun flags painted on their bows but it was believed these were not seen because the warships did not use their searchlights.

In Taipei, a spokesman for the Nationalist Foreign Office said his government was investigating the incident to determine if the Nationalist navy was responsible for the sinkings.

Authoritative sources admitted that it was "possible" that the Nationalist navy "quite unintentionally" mistook a Japanese fishing fleet for Communist Chinese sea raiders.

School Delegates Urge Ban on Red Teachers

CHICAGO (UP)—The Illinois Assn. of School Boards has urged that Communist party members not be employed as teachers.

The ban against communists was backed in a resolution passed at the association's convention Monday night.

Another resolution asked Gov. William Stratton and the State Legislature to give immediate attention to increasing financial support of public schools.

Delegates also asked that the present formula for distributing state aid be continued for the next two years. They recommended that aid for school buildings be made available from a state revolving fund to districts that lack bonding power.

Many of the 1,800 persons attending the meeting said the solution to higher school costs was equalized tax assessments.

In a discussion group of 200 persons, all but two said they did not feel present tax assessments were equitable.

James V. Moon, Western Springs superintendent of schools, said a survey in his community showed one million dollars worth of property which was not on the tax rolls.

Last Indian Campaign

McCarthy and Hospital Differ on Elbow Surgery

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and Bethesda Naval Hospital apparently disagreed today over whether his elbow injury has been serious enough to require surgery.

McCarthy reported that doctors "operated on the elbow to take out pieces of glass" Monday and might do some more work on it today. He indicated the process involves some pain and discomfort.

A hospital spokesman said today, however, that "no surgical operative procedure" has been performed and none "is contemplated at this time." He said McCarthy is "doing nicely" and that his condition is "neither serious nor critical."

McCarthy made his report to a "pool" photographer who was admitted to Bethesda's Room 574 Monday afternoon as a representative of all news services. It was the first break in the news blackout on the senator's hospital stay.

Definitions May Differ
It is possible the probing for glass reported by the senator does not fit the definition of "operative surgery" as used by the hospital so that the two reports only differ in terminology. But the hospital persistently refused to issue any clarification or to confirm or deny there was any probing for glass.

One photograph of McCarthy taken Monday showed him in bed with his right arm swathed in bandages which extended from his wrist to his armpit.

McCarthy injured his elbow on a glass-top table while shaking hands with admirers and he was admitted to the hospital last Wednesday, causing the Senate to call an 11-day halt in its McCarthy censure debate. His first bedside report came amid these other developments:

Air Time Denied

1. NBC Monday night rejected McCarthy's request for 15 minutes of television time Thanksgiving Day to answer the censure charges against him. It gave no reasons. McCarthy had no comment either on the nature of his request or his reaction to the rejection.

2. A McCarthy supporter said that in a bid for votes the latest censure compromise formula has been changed to eliminate any praise of McCarthy. He also reported that McCarthy's name has been dropped since some of his supporters refused to go along with any compromise containing criticism of the Wisconsin Republican.

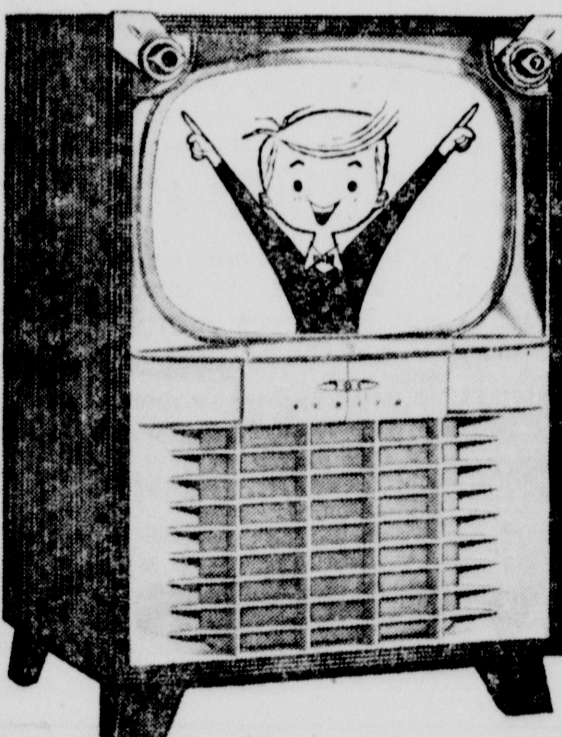

3. Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) predicted that a move to censure McCarthy for his attacks on the Senate censure committee will fail. He also criticized Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) for expressing "grave suspicions" that McCarthy's illness is part of an effort to prevent a censure vote.

THE STORY: Greg Seaver, a young man who wants to do something on his own, leaves the relative security of working for his stepfather to become a chauffeur for a wealthy invalid, Wade Daggett, who is also tired of staying in one place. Traveling in Daggett's car and trailer they rescue a displaced alien, Rupert Landdusky, from a probable death by exposure. Somehow they haven't the heart to turn him in, for he is illegally in the country, but Rupert is afraid. When he sees a policeman in a New England town, he flees in fear.

XII

He was in the third bar Greg entered, a glass in his hand, his dollar bill on the counter before him. He caught sight of Greg and finished his drink in a hurry.

Greg stood beside him, trying to hold in his smoldering anger. "What are you drinking?"

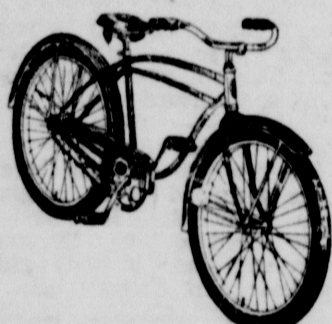

"Brandy. It works faster." Greg ordered another brandy for Rupert and beer for himself. "Why did you run away?"

"I thought this might be my last drink."

"Why did you think I'd turn you in?" In his outrage at this betrayal Greg forgot entirely that he had sponsored the idea only a few days earlier.

"It has happened to me before." "Nothing is going to happen to you here. Just relax."

Greg pushed Rupert's dollar bill toward him and paid the check. After a moment's hesitation the color crept over Rupert's cheeks and his hand moved forward slowly. He pocketed the money.

That day Daggett insisted on driving longer than usual. It was not until they passed a roadhouse that he consented to stop for the night at a nearby trailer park. After he was settled in bed, with a book and cigarette within reach, he suggested, "Why don't you two go up for a drink?"

There were a dozen or more cars parked in front of the roadhouse but it seemed nearly empty. It was a barn of a place, dimly lighted. Through the gloom, Greg could make out couples sitting at small tables, factory girls with their escorts, professional girls, sprinkling of older couples. Oddly enough, it was the latter who made the most noise.

Rupert made his way to the bar like a homing pigeon and Greg followed him.

Some of the girls weren't bad at all. In a few minutes one of them came up to him.

She smiled tentatively. "Hello, Goodlooking. Want to dance?"

"Why not?" Greg led her out on the floor. He was not a good dancer but the girl was expert and she made him feel better than he was. It was pleasant to have a woman in his arms and this one was not demanding. He bought her a drink and they danced again.

"Who is your handsome friend?" She sighed. "What a girl would give for those eyes and lashes. Wasted on a man."

"Want to meet him?" Obviously she did, but business came before pleasure. "You are more my type. I'd rather talk to you."

She sat beside him in one of the little booths and moved close. Rupert left the bar and swerved toward the booth where Greg was sitting with the girl.

The girl gave him a melting glance. "Are you going to dance with me?"

"No," Rupert said. "Never do that. Never take away my friend's girl."

She laughed with mechanical brightness. "Say, you're good. Want to order some champagne? I'm crazy about champagne."

"No," Rupert said again. "No wine—no kick in it."

The girl answered this with an obliging scream of laughter. "No wine. No women. How do you feel about song?"

"Song?" Rupert echoed in his rasping voice. Abruptly he buried his face in his arms on the table. He was crying, hard, tearing sobs that shook his thin body.

The uneasy silence was broken by a man's embarrassed laughter. "What a crying jag."

Greg paid the bill, waited until Rupert was quiet, and then said, "Let's go."

He got Rupert outside and they began to walk away from the roadhouse. Rupert staggered but he pulled the key from his pocket as though it were a talisman and tossed it from hand to hand.

At length Greg said quietly, "What happened to you?"

"One of Mussolini's boys," Rupert said. "I was singing at La Scala and this fellow was annoyed because I refused to sing for a Fascist gathering. He was persuasive. First he hung me by a strap and played a little tattoo on my back." For once there was no drama, no overstatement in his voice. "Then—the pause lengthened until Greg thought he would not speak any more that night—they operated on my throat."

Greg leaned against the gate and lighted a cigarette. There was nothing to say. "So much has happened since then," Rupert went on, "but that was the thing that mattered most. My family is gone, my home, my country, my profession. I am practically an authority on concentration camps, on escapes, on crossing frontiers without a passport. It is a strange thing to belong nowhere, Greg. Even the ticking of a clock is like a voice saying, 'Move on. Move on. Move on.'"

He clung to the top post of the gate, turning the key over and over in his hand. "That is the key to the house my family moved into after the Fascists got me. My mother was killed and my two young sisters." He slipped the key back into his pocket. "Not by Fascists or Nazis. It was an American bomb. War is like that. No one, you see, is to blame. Or all of us."

Doubt Recess Appointment For Judge Stone

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration officials said privately today they do not expect President Eisenhower to give Judge John M. Harlan a recess appointment to the Supreme Court to speed hearings on the school segregation cases.

The high court Monday postponed arguments on how and when southern states should abolish segregated school systems until the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Robert H. Jackson is filled.

The decision means the hearings—originally scheduled to begin Dec. 6—will probably not start until sometime in January at the earliest.

Only 10 Major Teams Select Players in Draft

NEW YORK (AP)—Fans of the Kansas City Athletics and Pittsburgh Pirates may not have much to cheer about after the 1955 baseball season starts, but they can be proud today of their teams' showings in the annual major league player draft.

The A's, living up to new owner Arnold Johnson's "money is no object" rebuilding promise, bought the largest number of players in the draft—three pitchers—and enthusiastically shelled out $35,000 for them.

The Pirates picked only one player, outfielder Robert Clemente, but as usual General Manager Branch Rickey was a real "bargain hunter" and paid only $4,000 for the highly-touted "sleeper."

All told, there wasn't much action in the annual talent grab bag—only 10 of the 16 teams bothered to make selections and the total purchase price of the 13 players picked was only $122,500.

There is always a chance that the total may grow, for teams have until midnight tonight to make additional selections.

Looking At Sports

By ED KIRKPATRICK

The Rev. W. L. (Buck) Cummins, pastor of the Harrisburg Methodist church, approached us with a sports article yesterday which he felt outstanding and deserving of additional publication. It is an article which appeared in Sunday's issue of The American Weekly, the magazine section of many of the country's Sunday newspapers. This particular story concerns Alvin Dark, New York Giant shortstop, and his views on stewardship to his church. Following are a few excerpts from the article on "Why I Tithed," by Alvin as told to Steve Perkins.

"The day after the Giants won the Series was Sunday, and I was at Yonkers, New York, Baptist church. I mentioned that I planned to give 10 per cent of my Series bonus to my church back home. After the meeting a man came up and introduced himself as a newspaper reporter. He said, 'Alvin, do you think your contributions to the church might have had something to do with your success in the Series?'"

"I reminded him that I was tithing in '48 when Boston lost the Series to Cleveland, and also in '51 when the Giants lost to the Yankees.

"And if we had lost to Cleveland this year," I added, "I'd still be tithing. There's no connection."

"In the past few weeks I've thought again and again about the question he asked me, and I've decided my answer was only partly correct. The real answer, I believe, is one which so many spiritually unhappy people are seeking today.

"Tithing, as part of a Christian way of life, has indeed helped me in baseball. I was taught that it would not bring me riches, but that it would bring me his blessing. I found that to be true.

"How have I been rewarded? In more ways than I can set down. But I can explain it by the feeling I first had when I began to play on my high school team. I always felt that no matter what I was doing, I wasn't by myself — that I had help.

"And I know that other ballplayers are conscious of that, too.

" Hoyt Wilhelm, our fine relief pitcher, regularly attends the Dobbs Ferry Baptist church when we are in New York. Sal Maglie and Jim Hearn invariably attend Mass. I could name others.

"You could argue that the 'help' I have felt has brought me material rewards, but I wouldn't want any young athlete to think he could be more talented... by attending church on Sunday. I do know that leading a full Christian life has made me a better man.

"Since I first picked up a baseball, I have believed I was intended to be a major leaguer—and for one reason. In no other way open to me could I have grown up to exert so much influence on young people of all faiths. I'm glad they are impressed by the shortstop of the New York Giants. I want them to believe me when I tell them that tithing is one of their most important obligations. It may not bring them riches, but it can bring them something far dearer — peace of soul."

Looking at Sports is pleased to present these excerpts, and know you must feel as we, after reading them, that Alvin Dark is not only a great ballplayer... but a greater man! If you missed the story in The American Weekly, why not slip back into that stack of Sunday newspapers, dig out the magazine section and read the article in full.

Schools Face Money Problems for Long Time, Education Group Advised

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The money problems of Illinois schools will be pressing for a long time to come, the dean of the state university's college of education said today.

B. L. Dodds, the dean, addressing a joint session of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards and the Illinois Assn. of School Administrators, warned there is no easy solution to the problems of raising money and spending it on the school system.

He said reliable estimates called for a deficiency appropriation "on the order of seven million dollars to provide full support of the foundation program of the state's schools for the current year, because enrollment increased more than anticipated."

These figures, Dodds said, mean higher building costs and more teachers.

Dr. Slightom Discusses Contact Lens at Rotary Ladies' Night Meeting

Dr. John Slightom, local optometrist, discussed one of the latest developments in eye correction aids—contact lens—at the Ladies' Night meeting of Rotary club yesterday.

More than 50 persons were in attendance. Bert Gaskins introduced the speaker.

Dr. Slightom emphasized that the new type lens was not a substitute for the common eye glasses, except in specific cases. They are best used, he pointed out, in the correction of certain type eye deficiencies.

Contact lens are also becoming popular, he related, for use by sports figures who need eye correction while participating in sporting events.

Other technical aspects and information relative to the wearing of the lens was presented. Dr. Slightom passed several of the various sized lens about the group that they might view these as he spoke.

An interesting question and answer session followed his talk.

NEW 1955 CADILLAC—The center door pillars of the 1955 Cadillac Fleetwood Series 60 Special Sedan have been reduced by more than half giving an almost unbroken area of sight without sacrificing structural strength. New 1955 Cadillac with Styling, Engineering Changes Now on Display

The 1955 Cadillac with advanced "show car" styling and major engineering refinements is now on display at the Humm Motor Co., local dealer.

There is a whole new body side panel treatment carrying the eye to the sweeping and sharply defined fenders that are an integral part of the car and characteristically Cadillac.

To present a sleeker over-all appearance in the Series 62 sedan and Fleetwood Series 60 Special sedan, the Florentine curve rear window design has been adapted from the Cadillac Coupe and Coupe de Ville.

The center door pillars on the Fleetwood Series 60 Special sedan have been made much narrower than are normally used on sedan models to allow greater unobstructed vision without sacrificing structural strength.

Complementing 1955 Cadillac styling are 19 new colors, two special upper body colors and four exclusive colors for the Eldorado. Don E. Ahrens, general manager of the Cadillac division and vice president of General Motors, said: "Innumerable two-tone effects can be derived from this selection. Cad-

Army Caught In Controversy Over A-Cannon

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Army, which defeated heavy opposition in building its atomic cannon, was caught up today in a new controversy over the behemoth's value as a weapon.

The public has a considerable stake in the matter. The 280 mm. cannon is considered a major weapon of U. S. forces in Europe. Fifty to 60 guns have been produced at a unit cost of little less than one million dollars. Now production has stopped because "current requirements" are filled.

The two opposing views on the 85-ton weapon can be summarized thus:

1. Major Gen. James A. Gavin, a rising star to watch in the Army, said Monday that "As of now there is no weapon that can do the job that it can do in combat." Not to have built it would be "grossly inexcusable."
2. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N. M.), a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee, regards the cannon as "fantastically inefficient" and fit chiefly for use in parades.

They had pleaded innocent, but changed their pleas to guilty today before Federal Judge Casper Platt. Joseph Ligon, 31, Roosevelt Whitaker, 28, and James Freeman, 29, each were sentenced to 11 years. Vharter Gore, 42, received a 9 year term and Morris Carver, 41, was sentenced to 5 years.
